LIGHTBOX is pleased to present the work of artist Annie Morris in the Project Gallery. This marks the first solo exhibition of this London-based artist in the United States.

Utilizing the seemingly ordinary media of ball-point pen and humble clothespins in her work recall Arte-Povera movements of the late sixties. Morris playfully balances intimate viewpoints within a daily practice of drawing into a formal construct wherein the layers of drawings are placed into a larger comprehensive visual tapestry with sculptural overtones.

Energy and joy infuse Annie Morris work as they transcend their humble material beginnings to become reflections of lives in a global, urbane and sophisticated society.
